Measurements: Please be accurate when taking your measurements. You should not be measured over heavy clothing or jeans. Using a measuring tape, measure the fullest part of your bust. Your waist is measured at the point where you bend from side to side. Your hip measurement should be measured approximately seven inches below your waist. It is best if someone can help you, or if you go to a local bridal shop. As a general rule, you will wear approximately one size larger in bridal wear than you do in ready to wear clothing.

*Extra length - If you are 5'9" or taller, you should order extra length or your gown may be shorter than the other bridesmaids (if the dresses are floor length). There is an additional charge for extra length.

Flowergirl Measurements: With a measuring tape, measure around the chest, directly under her arms. Measure her waist at the point where she bends from side to side. Measure her from the hollow of her neck (the notch at the base of her throat) down to the floor without shoes on.
